

Jay Leberman

Presently beginning 15th year as Head of School of Perelman Jewish Day School (greater Philadelphia) K-8, 500 students, member of the SSDS Association (www.pjds.org .)

Jay has been the head of a Solomon Schechter Day school for 27 years and credits his success, inspiration, continued enthusiasm, experience, and vision to my fabulous 8 years as a student at Bet Shraga. He says that a day doesn't go by in my professional life when he does not link current practice to memories and experiences at Bet Shraga.

Jay is a graduate of the Hebrew University, Jerusalem and Oxford University, Oxford.

He has four children. The two older boys live in Israel, another son at University in the States, and a daughter about to begin musical theatre school in NYC in the fall.
