

Nava R. Silton, Ph.D. '95

Nava received her B.S. from Cornell University and her M.A. and Ph.D. from Fordham University. Silton has worked at Nickelodeon, Sesame Workshop, and Mediakidz. She has taught both undergraduate and graduate psychology courses at Fordham University, Hunter College, Touro College and is now a tenure-track Assistant Professor at Marymount Manhattan College. She was a Postdoctoral Templeton Fellow at the Spears Research Institute at the Healthcare Chaplaincy from 2009-2010 and she currently serves as a consultant for projects conducted by the Autism Seaver Center at Mount Sinai Hospital and at Sesame Street Workshop. Her primary research interests include determining how best to enhance typical children's sensitivity to children on the autism spectrum, how to teach social emotional skills to children on the spectrum and looking at the interface between religion and health. Silton is also a weekly coach for Special Olympics Gymnastics, helps run a weekly Jewish learning program and Bikur Cholim (visiting the sick) for the upper west side and chairs a variety of fundraising initiatives for Ohel, Hazon Yeshaya, NACOEJ, Gush Katif and Sderot. Nava married Ariel Brandwein, a pediatric resident in 2009 and welcomed a new son, Judah (Yehuda) Lior, this Summer 2011.
